

ORDER LANDLORDS TO FURNISH HEAT

That unheated dwellings and apartment houses contribute to the spread of this disease and are detrimental to the public health and safety.
Now, therefore, by virtue of the powers vested in them by joint resolution of Congress, adopted February 26, 1918, the Commissioners of the District of Columbia do hereby make and promulgate a special health ordinance, as follows:

That the owner, manager, superintendent, or other person in control of every apartment house, lodging house, hotel, or rooming house, or other place in the District of Columbia used as a dwelling, who as principal or agent is under obligation to supply the inmates thereof with heat, is hereby required to heat such buildings to a temperature of not less than 70 degrees Fahrenheit and maintain it at such temperature while this ordinance remains in force, provided that a fluctuation of temperature of not more than 5 degrees Fahrenheit and continuing for not more than one hour, shall not be considered a violation of this order.

"For each and every day any person liable hereunder shall fail to comply with the provisions of this ordinance he shall be liable to a fine not to exceed forty ($40.00) dollars."

Complaints.
The new health regulation framed by the Commissioners followed thirteen complaints to the Police and Health Department that the proprietors of apartments and hotels were not supplying sufficient heat to safeguard the lives of tenants suffering from influenza and pneumonia.

These complaints were received this morning, making a total of sixty-nine that have come to the attention of the Commissioners in the last two days.

Dr. H. S. Mustard, of the Public Health Service, today made this announcement:
"I have sent a provost guard to the Speedway lunchroom at Nineteenth and B streets northwest with instructions to keep all soldiers, sailors and Marines from entering the establishment. I have received reports that the conditions of this lunch room are unsanitary and a guard will be stationed in front of the establishment from 9 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock at night. This will continue until the proprietors remedy the conditions."

A report that the doors of the lunchroom were locked. On the front door was a sign bearing one word "closed."

New Death Record.
The report of twenty-five deaths in the twenty-four hours ending at noon today marks a new record in the number of deaths reported in any twenty-four hours since the epidemic gained a foothold.

EPIDEMIC CRIPPLES FOUNDINGS' HOME

Probably the most glaring example of the conditions caused by the influenza epidemic in Washington and the need for volunteer workers is found today at the Foundling Hospital, 1715 Fifteenth street northwest.

With the superintendent and the entire staff of nurses stricken with the disease, with thirty-six foundlings, ranging from two to six years old, seriously ill, and with twenty-six infants to be taken care of, conditions are probably worse than in any other institution in the city. Last night the only care these foundlings had was given by three volunteers, who worked from 8 until 1 a. m.

Those members of the staff who have so far escaped the disease, have not slept for forty-eight hours. The place is in urgent need of a woman to go into the kitchen and prepare food for the children, and helpers to care for the twenty-six infants, not yet ill, who for their protection have been isolated on an upper floor. A man of all work and a laundry helper are also badly needed.

INFLUENZA TAKES PROMINENT VICTIMS

Influenza during the past twenty-four hours has caused the death of several persons prominent in Washington diplomatic, military, and business circles. Among them are Mrs. Wallington Koo, wife of the Chinese minister to the United States; Rear Admiral William Andrew Gill; Major Byron Cameron Murchison, Marine Corps; and Woodbridge Clapp, Senate reporter and poet.

Mrs. Koo died yesterday of pneumonia following a severe attack of influenza. She was the daughter of Tong Shao Yi, former prime minister of China. She came to Washington in December, 1915, with her husband. Burial will be in China.

NO CHANGE IN EPIDEMIC IS MANIFESTED AT ANY OF CAPITAL HOSPITALS

Spanish influenza, in seven of eight local hospitals had made practically no change for either better or worse up to noon today.

At Georgetown University Hospital, twelve new cases have been reported within the last twenty-four hours with two deaths. Miss Rose Shon, twenty-four years old and Mrs. Lulu McDonough, twenty-seven years old, both nurses.

Reports from the local hospitals show: Casually, two new civilian cases and two nurses taken sick within the last twenty-four hours. Emergency reports no new cases within the last twenty-four hours.

Two new cases were reported by Garfield Hospital.
George Washington University Hospital has a clean sheet, having no new cases and no nurses or doctor-sick.

Homeopathic hospital reports show three new cases with no doctors or nurses sick and no deaths either from influenza or pneumonia within the last twenty-four hours. At the Children's Hospital, two new cases have been reported. Columbia Hospital has no cases at all.

Only four new cases have been received by Freedman's Hospital within the last day.

SEN. MARTIN WANTS TO STOP ARRIVALS OF MORE FEDERAL CLERKS

Continued bringing in to Washington of great numbers of persons for Government service, especially clerks in the departments and Government agencies, is likely to lead to strong protest in Congress.

Senator Martin of Virginia, Democratic leader of the Senate and chairman of the Appropriations Committee, impressed with the danger of such a policy when the influenza is at its height, feels that the city is overcrowded already.

Senator Martin expects to consult the President and will also talk with Surgeon General Blue.

There was a net gain of more than 5,000 Government employees here in September. Seven thousand more are soon to come. Rooms for such a number are by no means available.

Unless the Civil Service Commission immediately acts to halt the influx of civil workers into Washington, Congressman Sears of Florida will introduce a bill Monday to accomplish this. He said he had sent out a warning in his district against coming to Washington until the epidemic is checked.

The House Rules Committee adopted a rule under which a bill already passed by the Senate providing for a reserve of Public Health Service will be considered by the House Monday.

Congressman Norton protested against notices being sent out by the department to the effect that men were needed here and abroad.
